This apparently Henry could hand him, although later he confessed to being unaware of Cardinal Kemp's passing. William Paston wrote to his brother John on 6th September 1454: "My lord of Canterbury hath received his cross, and I was with him in the King's chamber when he made his homage.

The King's great illness – KING HENRY VI

The nearest country to present Henry VII with potential problems was France. England and France had been major rivals since 1066 and had clashed over English-held land in France for many years – the most acrimonious being the Hundred Years War from 1337 to 1453. By 1485, France had nearly become one cohesive state.
