Maternal instinct--the all-consuming, utterly selfless love that mothers lavish on their children--has long been assumed to be an innate, indeed defining element of a woman's nature.
But is it? In this provocative, groundbreaking book, renowned anthropologist (and mother) Sarah Blaffer Hrdy shares a radical new vision of motherhood and its crucial role in human evolution.*

Mother Nature presents a radical new way of understanding how mothers act and why, and how this new understanding is changing the way scientists think about how evolution works.
Drawing on anthropology, history, literature, developmental psychology, and animal behaviour, Sarah Hrdy examines the distinct biological and genetic elements that constitute maternal instinct.

She discusses the evolutionary benefits of maternal instincts and why they would have risen. The obvious benefits she discusses are that it is a better success rate for children if the mother cares for and nurtures the child. It talks about particular instincts like fear of strangers and attachment to a child - presenting the idea that these
